Re: MB Docket 04-233

In reference to the above I would like to say the WVVA currently helps the public and its non profit community servicing agencies with well needed coverage of community serving and essential programs. The Salvation Army of Southern WV serves more than 30,000 people of the southern WV area, with the basic mental physical and spiritual needs of life.

Theses services are done with out mandate of government and at this time I see no reason to mandate what is already being done.

If it wer3e not for the media here in our community giving us free coverage for our fund raising and community service events then we would not be able to help the 30,000 people we will help this year.
